And Delhi is no exception. We had always loved this city, even when we were residents of Mumbai or New York. We did not need to travel to the Capital in order to know the Secrets of Delhi. And now, with more exposure to other parts of the country, We feel more at home in this City than ever before. We do not leave for Delhi unless we have a definite purpose. This time, we left for New Delhi only with one goal in mind. We had to find out how much of an eccentric is our little city. Armed with our GPS's, we set off, like a couple of teenagers on a school trip. Our first stop was the Qutub Minar. It was built at the height of the Mughal Empire, And is said to be the highest minaret in the world. According to our GPS, It is in the heart of the Qutub Shahi Complex, Which was the residence of the Sultan of Delhi. One can hardly miss the place, since the Qutub Minar towers sky high at the top of the Red Fort. Its exterior is beautifully carved with intricate carvings in the shape of flying birds and peacocks. It is said that the birds are the souls of the Sultan's children. The complex also houses a huge complex of palaces and courts. This fascinating place is still under restoration. The site is spread over 7.5 acres, and parts of it are still under construction. There is a magnificent pool, and a canopied gateway through which one can enter the court. There are a number of statues of different poses, mostly of the Hindu gods. The layout of the complex, and the size of the courtyards and rooms, Are reminiscent of the architecture of the Mughal empire. The complex's name, Qutub Minar, or Minaret of
